

Gwinnett County Health Department
&
DeKalb County Health Department

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

February 8, 2010

FREE H1N1 Vaccinations offered at Vietnamese New Years Celebration
-Sunday, February 14th-

(NORCROSS, GA) If you have not received the H1N1 vaccine, it is not too late. The Gwinnett County Health Department & the DeKalb County Board of Health are partnering with Boat People SOS to offer FREE H1N1 vaccinations (nasal & injectable) during this year's Vietnamese New Years Celebration scheduled for Sunday, February 14, 2010 at 5495 Jimmy Carter Blvd. #B5 in Norcross.

The H1N1 clinic will be set up behind the stage, near the kids' activity area and will be offered from 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm.

Vaccine is available to anyone interested and will be provided at no charge to the client. If available, persons are encouraged to bring their Medicaid, Medicare, or private insurance cards with them, for proper billing.

Continue to stay informed about H1N1. Flu experts warn that the flu may peak again before the season is over.

For additional information on Vietnamese New Years Celebration, please visit: www.bpsos.org or call (770) 458-6700.

For additional information on H1N1 or general public health services, please visit:

Gwinnett County Health Department: www.EastMetroHealth.com
DeKalb County Board of Health: www.dekalbhealth.net

###